BRAND HERITAGE

A BASEMENT BRAINSTORM

When people hear the word “basement,” they’re more likely to picture mold and spiders than the birth place of a global communication and leadership training organization. But a basement in a YMCA in Santa Ana, California, is exactly where, in 1924, Dr. Ralph C. Smedley held the first meeting of what would eventually become Toastmasters International.

Dr. Smedley began working as director of education for a YMCA after he graduated from college. He observed that many of the young patrons needed “training in the art of public speaking and in presiding over meetings,” and he wanted to help them. He decided the training format would be similar to a social club. During the early 1900s the word “toastmaster” referred to a person who proposed the toasts and introduced the speakers at a banquet. Dr. Smedley named his group “The Toastmasters Club” because he thought it suggested a pleasant, social atmosphere appealing to young men.

When Dr. Smedley started The Toastmasters Club, members practiced speaking skills in a supportive, informal atmosphere. Word spread about Dr. Smedley’s YMCA experiment and soon people in other communities and even other states began asking for permission and help to start their own Toastmasters meetings. By 1930 the burgeoning clubs had established a federation to help coordinate activities and provide a standard program. In 1935, the organization officially became Toastmasters International after a speaking club in New Westminster, British Columbia, Canada, expressed interest in joining.

Over the next six decades, the number of Toastmasters grew, and so did the need for a larger staff to serve them. Toastmasters World Headquarters relocated in 1990 to its new building in Rancho Santa Margarita, California, about 20 miles south of Santa Ana.

The evolution of its educational programs and resources are the essential elements behind Toastmasters International’s success and growth. Training has expanded from the 15-project manual, Basic Training for Toastmasters, developed by Dr. Smedley, and now includes other materials to help members develop skills in listening, giving feedback, decision-making, delegating and mentoring.

With more than 352,000 members in more than 16,400 clubs in 141 countries, Dr. Ralph Smedley’s “basement brainstorm” continues to thrive in the 21st century.

Where Leaders Are Made

TOASTMASTERS INTERNATIONAL ENVISIONED FUTURE
To be the first-choice provider of dynamic, high-value, experiential communication and leadership skills development.

TOASTMASTERS INTERNATIONAL VALUES
- Integrity
- Respect
- Service
- Excellence

These are values worthy of a great organization, and they should be the anchor points of every decision we make. Our core values provide a means of guiding and evaluating our operations, our planning and our vision for the future.

BRAND PROMISE
Empowering individuals through personal and professional development.
MISSION STATEMENT

TOASTMASTERS INTERNATIONAL MISSION
We empower individuals to become more effective communicators and leaders.

DISTRICT MISSION
We build new clubs and support all clubs in achieving excellence.

CLUB MISSION
We provide a supportive and positive learning experience in which members are empowered to develop communication and leadership skills, resulting in greater self-confidence and personal growth.

Toastmasters International is the leading nonprofit organization devoted to creating effective leaders and communicators worldwide.

Through its clubs, Toastmasters International helps people learn the arts of speaking, listening and thinking — vital skills that promote self-actualization, enhance leadership potential, foster human understanding and contribute to the betterment of mankind.

It is basic to this mission that Toastmasters International continually expand its worldwide network of clubs, thereby offering ever-greater numbers of people the opportunity to benefit from its programs.
I wasn't born a leader. They were all around me though. In the community, at work, at school. Leaders were everywhere. They were the heads of families, coaches of teams, business leaders, mentors, organizational decision-makers.

I admired these leaders. They influenced who I was and who I was becoming. Whatever they did professionally or how they became what they were, I aspired to walk in their footsteps.

And, so, I committed myself to becoming one.

Finally, it came to me. It wasn’t just what leaders knew that enabled them to lead. They had a voice. They could tell their story. They could listen and answer. They didn’t just accomplish, they communicated.

So I set out to find my voice. Learn to process information on my toes. I needed to learn to listen. Learn to give feedback — and accept it. I needed to organize, plan, deliver, follow up. I needed a place where all the ingredients were there, and someone would guide me along the way.

I found that place. I found a community of learners and the path to leadership.

I am a leader — and I was made.
WHAT DOES THE TERM BRAND PERSONALITY MEAN?
The term brand personality describes how an organization interacts with the general public at every touch point. An organization’s brand personality is universal — regardless of language, location or audience. A successful brand personality is always aligned with — and supportive of — the company’s brand positioning.

EMPOWERING
What is an “elevator pitch”?

An “elevator pitch” is a brief summary used to get your audience to ask for more information, ride another floor, request a business card, etc. Each statement of your Toastmasters elevator pitch should define the organization’s value proposition and should last about five seconds, or three floors of an elevator ride.

Preparation is key to delivering a successful elevator pitch. Be ready with three things you can say about the Toastmasters organization. Your messages should be authentic and relevant to your audience; therefore, each pitch will be a little different. Just be sure you clearly explain what Toastmasters International does, and define it in a way that relates to the interests of your listener.

Stuck on what your key messages should be? Here are two ideas to get you thinking:

1. Describe three things that the Toastmasters International program helped you accomplish over the past year and the impact of these accomplishments.

2. Tell one great story about the work you do in Toastmasters that is personal, compelling and representative of the Toastmasters organizational purpose.

Being prepared means being ready to go further. Think of it like Table Topics: If someone is really interested in what you just told them, you need to be ready to expand on the conversation with more information. You also need to know how to help your listener find more information and contact someone who can guide them through a welcoming engagement.
“For more than 86 years, Toastmasters International has been recognized as the leading organization dedicated to communication and leadership skill development. Through its worldwide network of clubs, each week Toastmasters helps more than a quarter million men and women of every ethnicity, education level and profession build their competence in communication so they can gain the confidence to lead others.

The world needs leaders. Leaders head families, coach teams, run businesses and mentor others. These leaders must not only accomplish; they must communicate. By regularly giving speeches, gaining feedback, leading teams and guiding others to achieve their goals in a supportive atmosphere, leaders emerge from the Toastmasters program. The organization answers a new generation’s plea: Where can I go to become a better communicator and ultimately, a stronger leader?

Toastmasters continues to build on its legacy by providing a strong foundation for the future. Its proven educational program continually evolves to address the needs of the world’s communicators and leaders both today and tomorrow.

Toastmasters members learn to tell their stories. They listen and answer. They plan and lead. They give feedback — and accept it. Through our community of learners, they find their path to leadership.”

VOICE AND TONE
Communication helps forge the relationship between our members and our brand. The Toastmasters brand has a singular, solid identity that should always reflect the core attributes of the organization's personality. (See page 11.)

Our voice and tone allow us to consistently reinforce our identity and connect with current and prospective members.

We have one goal: to relentlessly focus on what’s right for our organization. So, before you write anything, take a moment to understand the context of your communication and the mindset of the audience. From context and mindset will come the appropriate word choice to create relevant communications for our various audiences.
All club and district leaders should be equipped to effectively and articulately explain the Toastmasters organization in 15 to 30 seconds.

It is, and always will be, about the listener. Try to tell the person you are speaking with something they want to hear. How will you know what that is? Here are a few ideas:

- Ask if they have heard of Toastmasters and what they believe it is.
- Ask questions to understand their interest or need and actively listen to their responses.

This basic understanding of your audience gives you a place to start to create a message about the Toastmasters organization that is relevant to your audience. The key is giving your listeners something they will be interested in hearing about. For example:

- Toastmasters is an organization dedicated to communication and leadership skill development. Each week, more than a quarter million men and women build their competence in communication.

- Trying to advance in your career can be an exciting, yet stressful time. Have you ever considered joining a club like Toastmasters to add specialized skills to your resume and boost your confidence to reach new professional milestones?

- A lot of people don't think about it, but parenting requires leadership skills. When I first had kids I sometimes lacked confidence as an authority figure so I joined a Toastmasters club. Have you ever heard of Toastmasters?
BRAND COMMUNICATION: THINGS TO REMEMBER

KNOW YOUR AUDIENCES
Speak with current Toastmasters, leaders and influencers from each target audience (page 22). Ask them the following:
- Why did you join Toastmasters?
- Why are you still involved with Toastmasters?
- How have you benefited from Toastmasters?

COMMUNICATE FOR YOUR AUDIENCES
Communicate clearly by putting yourself in the shoes of your audience. When people are exposed to new information, they ask, “What’s in it for me?” or “What’s my connection here?” You will keep your audience’s interest if your communication is clear, easy to digest and relevant to them.

FOCUS ON RESULTS
Emphasize the tangible results, or benefits, of participating in the Toastmasters program. Sometimes it is easy to focus on the features of membership rather than the outcome of being a member.

BE CONVERSATIONAL
Communicate in an authentic and approachable manner. When writing on behalf of Toastmasters, don’t be afraid of using conversational phrases such as, “So what’s next?” or, “Here’s how you can join today.” When appropriate, try to avoid being overly formal by using short, simple words and phrases.
A key element of the Toastmasters International brand is our focus on leadership. To deliver on our brand positioning, it is essential that we communicate the leadership skills and attributes members can acquire through Toastmasters. The following are examples:

- Leaders are emotionally mature; they are comfortable with themselves and accept their own faults and abilities.
- Leaders are free thinkers who are not afraid to disagree with the majority.
- Leaders are goal-oriented.
- Leaders are determined and will overcome obstacles to achieve their goals.
- Leaders are willing to take risks and are not afraid to fail.
- Leaders continue to perform despite delays, disappointments, distractions or failures.
- Leaders focus on continuous improvement.
- Leaders inspire people around them to become better.
- Leaders treat people with respect and importance.
- Leaders are strong mentors.
- Leaders are ambitious.
- Leaders intuitively identify others’ strengths and help them to overcome their weaknesses.

“A leader is one who knows the way, goes the way, and shows the way.”
— John C. Maxwell

DESIGN ELEMENTS: TRIANGLE CALLOUTS

Triangle callouts are used to highlight important headers and proprietary information such as taglines. When using the shape in layouts, restraint is key. All colors in the brand palette are available for use; however, the selected color should contrast with the accompanying background.

To create a cohesive visual experience and link information within a given framework, extend the color of the triangle callouts and supporting text to other headers or paragraph titles.

This example shows the colors of the callout shape and tagline, “WHERE LEADERS ARE MADE,” applied to “Jane Doe, Future CEO.” The cohesive color choice provides a strong correlation between both messages on behalf of the Toastmasters International brand.

Triangle callouts are available for download at www.toastmasters.org/graphicelements

Dear Club President,

Congratulations! Your club has earned the President’s Distinguished Club award for its achievements in the 2010-2011 Toastmasters International Distinguished Club Program.

We appreciate the tremendous effort your club made to achieve this award. Officers organized and conducted exciting club meetings, made sure all members had plenty of speaking and leadership opportunities and promoted membership growth. Because of everyone’s efforts, the club achieved the Toastmasters club mission.

Again, on behalf of the district, I congratulate you. We hope your club continues its success and commitment to excellence this year.

FAQs

What are the benefits of using the Toastmasters branding standards?
When you use these branding standards, the Toastmasters International brand becomes stronger. By communicating one consistent Toastmasters identity, the brand is more recognizable and accurately symbolizes the benefits of this great organization we are all proud to be part of.

Clubs and districts that communicate a consistent look help increase understanding and global awareness of Toastmasters International and can be beneficial in attracting and retaining members by clearly showing a connection with an international organization. All clubs have a responsibility to reinforce the brand through consistent application of club messaging and visual communications.

How does the brand impact me?
More than simply a logo and colors, the brand is represented through everything we do and say. Each member will interact with the brand in a variety of ways, from communicating with prospective members, to building new clubs, to the materials used for district conferences and club meetings. By communicating one consistent look, tone and message, we increase global recognition and understanding of Toastmasters International.

How can we brand our club?
There are many ways clubs can brand their club. For visual branding, clubs can use the branded materials on the Logos, Images and Templates page. Here you can find pre-made templates, downloadable graphic elements and stationery templates. Another way that clubs can brand is by displaying the branded banner at the entrance of the meeting location. By displaying the banner at the front of your meeting location, prospective members will recognize your club as being tied to an international organization.

When each club around the world provides a safe and welcoming club experience, all members are contributing in strengthening Toastmasters International brand promise.

Is it acceptable for districts and clubs to create custom themes, pins and logos?
To strengthen the Toastmasters International brand, we need to create a unified global perception of the organization through consistent messaging and visual identity.
FAQs

Having a theme in your district or club that changes each year implies a change in our organization’s mission or direction and could confuse members or potential members.

Clubs and districts should not create annual themes, but they can still develop conference- and club-specific themes that relate to the educational materials, speakers and topics that will be presented during the event or meeting.

Are there guidelines to incorporate the brand into club and district materials?

Yes, please review the Brand Manual for brand information and guidelines.

Can I create custom Toastmasters materials?

Yes, but first please review the two-steps on how to do so under Creating Your Own Materials on the Logos, Images and Templates page. To request permission to use the Toastmasters trademarks in your materials, you must submit an official Trademark Use Request Form with a sample of your design. For more information on Toastmasters trademarks and copyrights, please review Toastmasters Policy and Protocol, 4.0.

How can clubs help to increase brand recognition?

Use branded materials in your district and throughout your clubs. Please visit the Stationery and Marketing Materials sections on the Logos, Images and Templates page for free resources. Clubs can display the branded banner, lectern and other promotional materials.

How can I brand my club or district website?

Please review the club and district templates under Club and District Websites on the Logos, Images and Templates page. The FreeToastHost (FTH) 2.0 platform allows clubs and districts to update the design and software of their website to match the brand of Toastmasters International; three branded templates are available.

Clubs and districts that do not use FTH can use Toastmasters predesigned Wordpress and Google themes. If the club or district website is customized or hosted on a different provider, apply the verbal and visual guidelines in this manual and incorporate the visual elements from the brand portal. All predesigned themes and additional, branded, website banners are available online in the Create a Website section on the Logos, Images and Templates page.
FAQs

How can our club be unique while still adhering to the brand?
