

A district visit provides an opportunity for an international officer, director and region advisor to make a positive contribution to the success of the district. For all such visits, district leaders and World Headquarters collaborate with the officer or director who is making the visit. Typically international officer visits happen every 5–6 years. The brochure highlights expectations of how to best prepare for officer and director visits, which include club-building opportunities, media events, the district conference and corporate recognition visits.

Additional tips:

- ▶ Visit Kit—Any time Toastmasters International leaders (IO, ID, RA) visit the district, a kit will be shipped. This kit includes materials for club-building opportunities.
- ▶ Expenses—World Headquarters will work with the visiting leaders (IO, ID, RA) to make airline reservations and will cover the costs. The district should cover all other costs for officers and directors, when practicable.
- ▶ Allergies—The visiting leaders (IO, ID, RA) might have allergies that the district should be aware of. World Headquarters or the leader visiting the district will share this information.
- ▶ Cultural Sensitivity—The visiting leaders (IO, ID, RA) are from all over the world. Please be culturally sensitive to their background and preferences. Also, please let us know if your district has its own cultural-etiquette preferences so we can inform the visiting leaders.

International Officer (IO) Visits

Club-building opportunities

- ▶ Research corporations in your area that do not have a Toastmasters club and arrange an appointment between a company representative (one that has decision-making authority) and the international officer. Provide company background prior to the visit.
- ▶ Look at different community groups to determine if one is interested in, and could benefit from, a Toastmasters club.
- ▶ Visit your Chamber of Commerce or Embassy Office for potential corporations to contact.
- ▶ Discuss the potential of having an open house or summit for the officer to share the benefits of the Toastmasters program. Allow time for a Q&A session with the officer.

Corporate recognition visits

- ▶ Discuss as a district team the corporations that have a Toastmasters club and submit a corporate recognition request by visiting www.toastmasters.org/corporate-recognition-visits. Work to incorporate media opportunities in this event.
- ▶ Schedule ample time for the senior executive and others, at the corporation, to meet the officer and take photos to memorialize the event.

Media events

- ▶ Connect the public relations manager with the Toastmasters International Public Relations department.
- ▶ Arrange for the officer to make an appearance on a local TV station.
- ▶ Arrange an interview with the officer to be used in a local newspaper.
- ▶ Arrange for the officer to make an appearance on live radio.
- ▶ Arrange an interview with the officer to be used in a magazine.

District conference

- ▶ Prepare time for the officer to give a keynote speech during the main portion of your program.
- ▶ Secure a spot for the officer to present an education session; try not to run any other sessions concurrently.
- ▶ Allow time for the officer to participate in a Q&A session with the attendees to discuss past experiences, organizational growth and direction.

International Director (ID) Visits

Club-building opportunities

- ▶ Research corporations in your area that do not have a Toastmasters club and arrange an appointment for a corporate representative (one that has decision-making authority) to meet with the international director. Provide company background prior to the visit.
- ▶ Look for different community groups to determine if one is interested in, and could benefit from, a Toastmasters club.
- ▶ Visit your Chamber of Commerce or Embassy Office for potential corporations to contact.

Corporate recognition visits

- ▶ Discuss as a district team the corporations that have a Toastmasters club and submit a corporate recognition request, by visiting www.toastmasters.org/corporate-recognition-visits. Work to incorporate media opportunities in this event.

Media events

- ▶ Connect the public relations manager with the Toastmasters International Public Relations department.

District conference

- ▶ Prepare time for the director to give a keynote speech during the main portion of your program.
- ▶ Secure a spot for the director to present an education session; try not to run any other sessions concurrently.

Region Advisor (RA) Visits

Region advisors support the district director, program quality director, club growth director and public relations manager in their efforts to fulfill the district mission. During district visits, the region advisor can help district leaders to further develop skills in marketing, goal planning, district operations and training other district officers. Based on the needs of the district, be prepared to work with the RA to:

- ▶ Create a specific agenda before the visit that will result in maximizing the time and effort of all parties.
- ▶ Assess and develop the District Success Plan and the district's marketing systems to firmly support club growth. This includes District Recognition Program goals.
- ▶ Further learn corporate-visit skills and strategies.
- ▶ Receive guidance on developing as a leader, identifying future leaders, and creating succession plans.
- ▶ Get support on any marketing goals necessary to achieve district success.
